Who'll Be Elected?

This is the season when the candidates send forth their promises to the listening ear of the voter.

But aside from those seeking office, there are other candidates whose plans are just as important to your personal interests.

These are the merchants and business men who speak to you daily through the columns of five newspapers like the Republican.

They do not make "no crust promises." They know that they are going to prosper just to the extent that they make good.

They want your trade by deserving it—and they present their claims to the General Court of Public Opinion through the advertising.

Advertising is a splendid index to the character of business men and a safe guide to those who use it.

"Under the Daisies" is a picture that every young girl should see, as it shows her the danger of the pitfalls that beset the pathway of all young and credulous girls.

This is a vignette two reel feature. Norma Talmadge and Leo Delaney have the leading parts in this great moral photo drama. After severely criticizing the first play by Robert Burton, the critic of the Evening Times, John Mearns, goes away into the country to get back his failing health. He has just heard from a lawyer that his uncle has left him a large legacy on condition that he does not marry before he is thirty-five years of age.

Mearns spends much of his time riding horseback and one day sees a pretty girl, Viola Martin, in a field. He introduces himself to her and commences a flirtation, after a time winning the trusting girl's love.

Before he leaves for the city he gets the girl, Viola Martin, to promise to follow him to the city and meet him there, promising that he will marry her. The marriage is never celebrated, Mearns puts off the wedding again and again until at last after five years has passed, Viola realizes that he no longer loves her. Her heart broken by his neglect, she leaves him and starts back for her country home. Viola never reaches her home but drops exhausted in the very field of daisies where she had first met Mearns.

Realizing that she can go no further, she writes a farewell note to Mearns recounting the history of their meeting in the form of a beautiful poem. The farewell is never finished, for, overcome by grief, she sinks lifeless among the pretty daisies that she had loved so well. A short time later, Mearns has written in blown away by the wind and gets into the hands of Robert Burton, who is staying in that part of the country seeking inspiration for a new play.

Burton discovers the body of the girl, Viola Martin, and recognizes her manuscript, never suspecting, however, that the villain who had wronged her was John Mearns.

Upon the verses written by the dying Viola Burton bases his new play which turns out to be a tremendous success. When seen by Mearns he recognizes the story to be that of the much wronged Viola. Overcome by remorse he returns to his home and makes away with his worthless life, leaving another to write the eulogy of Burton's triumph.

PARISIAN SAGE. This popular moving picture newspaper has become so much in demand that we have decided to book it for two days in the beginning of the week thereby giving the patrons of this theater all the best copies of the day two days earlier than has been the custom in the past. This week's picture consists of nine subjects.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK. A great fire sweeps away 55 blocks of the city and renders homeless 2,500 people.

WASHINGTON, D. C. The Portland, Oregon, Fire Department band renders a selection for the entertainment of the President and is congratulated by him on the White House lawn.

IN MEMORIAM. The city of New York mourns its Mayor William Jay Gaynor, who was at one time a Presidential possibility, and had been re-nominated for mayor just before his death.

THE EMBARRASSMENT OF RICHES. A great farce comedy. A poor Irishman suddenly becomes a millionaire and when he finds out that he must play polo or as he says, "chasing a little ball" all over the place with a poker and has to eat oysters with a fork and wear the shoes he is in the fashion, he decides that it is not all pleasure in being rich and decides to go back to his pluck and shovel.

LAW AND HIS SON. A very dramatic biograph photoplay and has a cast of great stars.

THUG WITH CLUB HIDES BEHIND POST. Report was made to the police last night shortly before 8 o'clock that a thug armed with a club was hiding behind a white bridge road in the vicinity of the Quick store. Patrolmen Preston and Dawson answered the call, searched the neighborhood but could not find the thug. Neighbor in the vicinity of the Quick store were much alarmed by the presence of the thug and from a rear window William Quick was shot down at the side of his store by a robbers' lookout.

ERUPTION ON ANKLE GREAT SUFFERING. Many Nights Did Not Sleep. Burned All the Time. Wore Bandage Night and Day. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Now Well.

Kingsville, Mo.—"My trouble began eleven years ago. Nearly half of the time there were running sores around my ankle; sometimes it would be two years at a time before they were healed. There were many nights I did not sleep because of the great suffering. The sores were deep running ones and so sore that I could not bear to touch them. They would burn all the time and sting like a lot of bees were crawling around my ankle. I could not scratch it. It was always so sensitive to the touch. I could not let my clothes touch it. The skin was very red. I made what I called a cap out of white felt, blotting paper and soft white cloth to hold it in shape. This I wore night and day.

"I tried many remedies for most of the fifteen years with no effect. Last summer when my ankle had been so sore for over a year and much worse than ever before I sent for Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It would itch and burn, besides a great itching. I think I could never explain. The very first time I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment I gained relief; they relieved the pain right then. It was three months from the time I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment until the sores were entirely healed. I have not been troubled since." (Signed) Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, Oct. 22, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c and Cuticura Ointment 50c are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free with 12-p. Skin Book. Address—"Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston.

NEW BILL AT PRINCESS MEETS WITH APPROVAL

Chief White Eagle at the Princess

Two large audiences at the Princess theater last night gave voracious approval to the new program. It is a bill that is extremely pleasing in every respect. From the chick Little LaBelle and follows with "Rain in the Face," a comic Indian recitation to music. The Light Opera—Four, operatic vocalists who were held from last week because of numerous requests. La Belle Caron, the agile little senorita who opens the program, has many skillful features to offer, some of them real thrillers, but her most pleasing attribute are her rope skipping and dances on the wire.

Chief White Eagle, the Yaqui Indian singer and dancer, is a real novelty. He appears in full Indian costume and sings "Indian Summer-time" and follows with "Rain in the Face," a comic Indian recitation to music. His last number is the "Navajo Rag." He ends his act with an Indian knife dance which works his audience into a high pitch of excitement.

Walter Lyons, "The Inventor of Joy," has a monologue which is a bundle of laughs and offers several parodies of his own composition, among them one on "The Oceanic" and another on "Let It Alone." He is a minimalist fashion plate, immaculate to the slightest detail, and appears as though he had just stepped out of a handbox.

Patricia's Weekly. The real bit of the program. He opens his act with a class overture and then drifts into a series of rag numbers which result in repeated encores being demanded. His instrument is a huge, a-fair and is unusually well toned. The playing of the instrument, especially in the rag numbers, requires no little dexterity.

The popular Light Opera Four, presenting a condensed version of the opera "H. M. S. Pinafore," are the feature of the present program as they were last week. Their numbers are entirely different from those sung before. The present program includes the following:

"We Sail the Ocean Blue"..... Quartet
"When I Was a Lad"..... Jack Houston
"A British Tar"..... Quartet
"A Maiden Fair to See"..... tenor
"Auld Acquaintance"..... Oscar Welch
"Audacious"..... Elvia Rand and Oscar Welch
"Grand Finale"..... Quartet
"Farwell My Own"..... Quartet

The Princess management makes the pleasing announcement that Morey's reproduction of the Titanic disaster, a recent feature of the Orpheum circuit, will be one of the big acts commencing next Wednesday. This is not a motion picture but a mechanically worked production showing in several scenes the disaster which startled the entire world. Lulu Atkins, the Aeroplane Girl, who sails out over the audience in a huge aeroplane while singing numbers, will also be a feature Wednesday.

ESPEE MAY BUILD DEPOT AT VISALIA. High Officials of Road Say Appropriation May Be Made Soon.

VISALIA, Oct. 12. — Definite assurances from high officials of the Southern Pacific was brought back to this city today to the effect that the new $25,000 station building will be built at an early date. Secretary James T. Boyer of the Visalia Board of Trade while in San Francisco last week, made it his business to find out how the application which has long been made, now stands. He was informed that everything possible was being done to secure the appropriation and that the officials he is convinced of the sincerity of the company and of their intention to give Visalia a modern station building soon.

Mr. Boyer also secured the cooperation of the road in advertising the Tulare County Citrus fair which will be held here in December. The Southern Pacific will advertise the project in its advertising as well as through special posters, etc., and will allow window exhibits at San Francisco, Oakland and Sacramento.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS. Fraternism received a boost when a large delegation of members of Fresno Lodge No. 335 and Progressive Lodge No. 365 went to Dinuba on Saturday night to witness the conferring of the rank of knighthood by a team composed of the two local orders. Knights have often been thrilled by the old story of Damon and Pythias, but the portrayal of the characters of these two heroes by the Fresno team in the beautiful musical work of the rank, was especially good. Delegates from Selma, Exeter, Oroquieta and Clovis were also in attendance.

Fresno Lodge No. 135 has always had a paternal as well as a fraternal feeling for the new lodge at Dinuba since the installation of the latter by the "Baby Lodge" some months ago, but the Fresno lodge has thrived so well and grown so rapidly that it now threatens to throw off the parental yoke and, instead of asking for assistance in their rank work, they propose to organize a team of their own.

Not the least of the pleasures of the evening was the lunch served at the conclusion of the work.

No small amount of appreciation is due those members who contributed so generously toward a successful trip by furnishing automobiles for the transportation of the Fresno party.

VINTAGE SCENES ARE CAUGHT BY MOVIES

Horatio F. Stoll Taking Pictures of Fresno Wine Districts

Calwa and Wahtoke Vineyards to Be Shown at the P. P. I. E.

Horatio F. Stoll, one of the newly appointed commissioners on the State Viticultural Commission, and secretary of the California Viticultural Exhibit Association that is planning an elaborate wine display for 1915, arrived in Fresno yesterday to secure some moving pictures of vintage scenes at the big Calwa and Wahtoke vineyards. He is stopping at the Hotel Fresno.

All day Sunday was devoted by Stoll and his two expert photographers to studying their subject and this morning, bright and early, they will begin recording on imperishable film the methods of picking, hauling, crushing and fermenting grapes in Fresno country.

"These educational motion pictures," explained Stoll, "are to be projected each day at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition and will prove a revelation to strangers who have no real idea of the extent and importance of our viticultural industry."

"We have found the season all too short to cover the ground we originally planned, as we are to photograph over forty representative vineyards extending from Selma, in San Diego county, westward out as early as we could, about September 15th, and the middle of next week we will finish this fall's pictures at Cucamonga in San Bernardino county. We have more time to complete the work and re-photograph anything that did not pan out perfect or that we missed. We will then be able to show every wine plant of consequence in Alameda, Contra Costa, Napa, Sonoma, Santa Clara, Sacramento, San Joaquin, Fresno, San Bernardino, and other grape growing counties."

"When we started out on our trip, we feared we might find a summer in material to be photographed, but no such thing has occurred. California presents such a varied contour that everywhere we discovered different methods, different grapes, different machinery and different scenery. All these we have utilized to advantage and the result is a collection of intensely interesting motion pictures that will be enjoyed by hundreds of thousands of visitors during the ten months' life of the big fair."

"The wine men are planning a $50,000 exhibit and in a moving picture room 60x20 feet, which will be part of their display in the Food Products Palace, these pictures will be projected. We will have our own machine and our own operator and from 9 in the morning until 6 in the evening each day the public will be able to see the pictures."

"It will take about ten minutes to run off each reel, which will consist of 500 feet of film, and a bulletin each day will announce when each subject is to be presented, so that a visitor, for example, will be able to learn when he can see the different films in which he is interested."

"We are looking forward with much expectation to our work at Wahtoke and Calwa tomorrow," concluded Stoll, "as these vineyards and wineries have much to offer that is original and striking. We hope next year to come back again to photograph several other large plants that have signified their intention to join in making our display a tremendous advertisement for California's superior dry, sweet and sparkling wines."

Six and a half operators leave for Selma tomorrow to photograph the plant of the Italian Vineyard Company at Guasti, where is located the largest individual vineyard in the state. It covers 4,000 acres of what was formerly the Cucamonga desert, but is now a stretch of emerald green producing about 20,000 tons of grapes.

YOKE FELLOWS BAND ORGANIZES AT Y. M.

Relief For Rupture Without Operation

No Big Expense—No Time Lost From Work
No Misery-Causing Belts or Leg-Straps
60 Days Trial to Prove It

Operation for rupture would hardly ever be heard of if it weren't for the mischief done by elastic and spring trusses.

Mighty few people ever have to be operated on when first ruptured.

But wearing makeshift trusses year after year is sooner or later almost sure to make work for the surgeon.

You know from your own experience—You know you're worse now than a year ago—probably getting worse all the time. If you keep on that way, how long will it be before you'll have to undergo a dangerous and expensive operation?

Are you willing to let us prove—by a sixty-day demonstration—how you can save yourself from all that?

Especially when you can make this sixty-day trial without having to risk a penny!

Won't Cost You A Cent If It Doesn't Stand the Test

There is something—a guaranteed rupture holder—which has saved thousands of people from ever having to be operated on.

It has so thoroughly proved its merits that we are willing to send it on a 60-day trial.

We'll make it especially for your case—make it to your measure—and practically send it to you just for a test.

If it doesn't keep your rupture from coming on or bothering you in any way, no matter how hard you work or strain—if it doesn't prove every claim it makes—when you can send it back and it won't cost you a single penny.

Will You Spend Two Cents To Find Out?

We don't want you to send any money. All we ask you to spend is the price of a two-cent stamp in writing for our free book—this will tell you everything you want to know.

It shows how our guaranteed rupture holder—the famous Clute Automatic Massaging Truss—is so utterly different from everything else for rupture that it has received eighteen separate patents. How it is made on an absolutely new principle. How it is self-regulating, self-adjusting. How it instantly and automatically protects you against every strain so your rupture can't possibly be forced out. And how in addition it provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture—and how it does all that entirely automatically.

The book tells how our guaranteed rupture holder is so strengthening and beneficial that physicians in all parts of America now recommend it instead of advising operation. How it has completely cured thousands of people whose cases seemed almost hopeless. How it does away with the curse of belts, leg-straps, and springs. How it is waterproof and will hold in the bath. How it is perspiration-proof and easily kept clean. How you can try it sixty days without having to risk a penny, and how little it costs if you keep it.

This Free Book Is Full of Facts Never Before Put in Print

There are so many mistaken ideas about rupture and what to do for it that we have taken the time to sum up in this book all we have learned during forty years of experience. You'll find it full of facts never before put in print.

It shows just why elastic and spring trusses are the rupture man's worst enemies—why they are almost sure to shorten your life or make operation necessary—why the law should put a stop to their sale.

It exposes the humbug "appliances," "methods," "plasters," etc.

It explains why operation is nearly always a needless gamble with death—and why, even if you manage to live through it, you may have to keep on wearing a truss.

It shows why sixty-day trial is the only way in the world you can make absolutely sure of anything for rupture and how the Clute Truss is the only thing you can get on such a long trial because the only thing good enough to stand a day-after-day test.

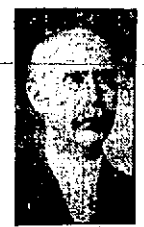

Don't fail to get this book—don't put it off—the minute it takes you to write for it we will free you from trouble for the rest of your life. Just use the coupon or simply say in a letter or postal "Send me your book."

GOSPEL THEMES IN FRESNO CHURCHES

Rev. Cowgill's First Service

Rev. Cowgill.

The daily sacrifice of self in the service of others which the Christian practice through all true living and is fundamental in the kingdom of God, maintained Rev. Frank H. Cowgill, pastor of the First Methodist church, in his initial sermon in his new pastorate yesterday morning.

"The Sacrificial Element in Life" was the subject selected by the minister, selecting his text from Matthew where is recorded the death of the enemies of Christ who turned him, saying, "He saved others; himself he cannot save." Rev. Cowgill spoke in part as follows:

These words were uttered in derision by the enemies of Christ as they witnessed his work upon the cross. They doubted that a just vengeance had overtaken a pretender. The fame of his miracle led them to exclaim: "He saved others; himself he cannot save."

Sarcasm owes its sting to the element of truth which it contains, and there was an element of truth in these words. Some things separately possible are collectively or contemporaneously incompatible. You may open a door and shut it, but you can't do both at the same instant. You may be physically able to knock an insulter down, but morally unable to do it because your principles of conduct do not allow you to answer insult with blows.

While the miracles of Christ might have led his disciples to expect that he would, in such a crisis as this, destroy his foes and save himself, he could not thus save himself, and yet save humanity to the higher destiny which he sought for it. He revealed his own greatness by fidelity to principle and patience in suffering for it. Through patient suffering and forgiving love he revealed the glory of the Father who sent him. He came to seek and to save, and could not save himself from pain and vice while accomplishing his purpose. He could not save himself because he was saving others.

LOVE AND SERVICE

This principle runs through living and is fundamental in the kingdom of God. The kingdom of God consists of those whose mainspring of conduct is love and whose love expresses itself in costly service.

Through the foeman's rank bristling with spears, Arnold of Winkelried made a path of escape for his companions by gathering unto his own breast the arrows of the Austrians. William of Orange heartened his Dutch compatriots while they resisted the despotism of Spain, and remained at his post of duty when he might have fled safely by flight to England or Germany, though he knew that assassination pursued him with poison and pistol and dagger; and when the fatal hour arrived it might have been said of him that he could not save himself though he saved his country.

Lincoln who saw haggard and gray-haired the burdens of the presidency in the stress of our civil war, could not save himself from the suspicion and reproach of his friends and the malicious hatred of his foes while with breaking heart and agonizing suspense he met the claims of his own conscience and struggled to save his country. From his Gethsemane and from his Calvary he could not save himself because he was saving the Union. In the periods of transition and the crisis of social and political progress the real statesman and the genuine reformer are likely to find the crown of thorns.

TEACHER'S SOLICITUDE

The operation of this same law may be traced in the realm of professional life. Many a teacher in the public schools may, at the end of the week, look over her contract with the school board and see that she has given more hours to her work than the letter of her contract requires.

And her love for her pupils and her solicitude for those who are different and incompetent have led her to serve them at such cost of time and strength to herself as no one else knows but God; but she cannot save herself from this toll if she is to save her pupils to the highest and best things of culture.

When, in the course of my journey, I came to the home of my friend who is a physician I was distressed at his appearance. He was so gaunt and pale and wrinkled and gray, and there were dark patches under his eyes, symptomatic of extreme fatigue. I recalled then that typhoid fever was prevalent in the community, and knew that while other people slept he had been toiling through dark nights and muddy roads to those who were sick, and rescuing as many as he could out of the stream of death flowing through the land. He could not save himself from these toils and hazards because he was saving others.

TRUE SACRIFICE

Nothing but the sovereignty of this same law can make home life what it ought to be. Where in the relation of husband and wife, parents and children, brothers and sisters, love speaks not itself, but results in service through which blessing is brought to others, the kingdom of God finds domestic expression and the true law of life is fulfilled. In spite of debt and business disaster my own father and mother by much toil and saving kept their children in college when we were slowly having to leave them by entering gainful occupations. True fatherhood and motherhood mean consecration to all the toil and care necessary to the welfare of the children.

It is needless to argue that in the sphere of religious endeavor this same law operates. This truth is written, plainly in the ordeal through which the prophets of the race have passed, and blazed along the paths trodden by the martyrs of every generation. As Jesus could not save himself while becoming the "Lamb of God," the apostles could not save themselves from their persecutions recorded in the book of the Acts, if they were to carry the truth of the Gospel to the men of their time. And this law of loving sacrifice is as inevitable and irrevocable in our time as it was in the days of Isaiah or Paul, and the man who in high station or low, toils for Christ, in the home land, should match the missionary abroad in self-denying zeal.

The Christian worker, wherever he may be, should understand that he cannot save himself to ease and self-indulgence without losing his cause, and that as he surrenders himself to the law of love and service he saves his home, his community, his country, to the highest and best things of life and destiny.

Rev. Talbott in His First Service

—Grace Methodist.

Rev. Elmer Talbott, California state secretary of the Methodist Federation, who was recently assigned as pastor to the Grace Methodist church of this city, occupied the pulpit of that church for the first time yesterday morning. In the afternoon he conducted services at Walnut Colony and in the evening preached again at the Grace church.

"Religion in Creed and Life" was the subject of his evening sermon, in which he said in brief as follows:

Several years ago Mr. S. D. Gordon was making a tour of the colleges of Missouri. At one of the schools Mr. Gordon was sitting with one of the boys and said to him, "Are you a Christian, sir?" With an odd expression on his face, the young man replied, "I'm a member of a church, but I don't think I'm very much of a Christian." A little later, in Kansas City, Mr. Gordon was talking to the dean of a medical college. The dean said to him, "I'm a member of a church, but I don't think I'm very much of a Christian." This was the same old distinction: church membership, but no fellowship with Christ; Creed but no Life.

The sweet spirit, Whitaker, Quakeress, had this blessed Secret of the "Happy Life." She wrote this book because she saw that so many church members were dissatisfied and unhappy in their Christian experience. She believed that God had something better for his children than a miserable, dissatisfied existence. A gentleman who was a close observer of her life, said to her, "You Christians seem to have a religion that makes you miserable. You are like a man with the red of his head and knows that he is in a bad way, but he keeps it up. You cannot expect outsiders to seek very earnestly for anything so uncomfortable."

THE ABUNDANT LIFE.

How is it with you? Is your experience in the Christian life such that no one else would want such an experience? What kind of a representative of Jesus Christ's power to save are you? Are you a living witness, or simply a church member? Can you say, "with Paul, Christ liveth in me," or is your religion merely a formal assent to some creed or church? Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." Are you living the "more abundant" life? That is your privilege.

It is not pessimistic to admit that our age is an age of materialism and materialism in spiritual matters. We are a busy, rushing, hurrying age. Too often we are content with the external—the perfunctory, superficial formalities of religion. Yet beneath the cloak of lukewarmness and lack of interest there is a dissatisfaction, a longing for something better. There are thousands of souls who are not only longing, but are blindly striving for perfection of spiritual life. This longing is a striving for perfection of spiritual life is innate in every human breast, and in the universal heart of the race.

The late Prof. Borden P. Bowne of Boston University, notes three views of the perfection men seek to attain: the "worldly view," the "ascetic view," and the "Christian view."

The worldly view follows out the materialistic, utilitarian philosophy of Spencer, Mill and the early Epicureans. It makes pleasure the highest good, and the ideal perfection. This view cannot long satisfy the human soul, for no one knows better than the ascetic worldling that it would profit nothing to gain the whole world.

PERFECTION.

The ascetic view of perfection is also materialistic, but treats in solemnity, distilled selfishness. This view is due to a false notion of spirituality. The ideal would be complete retirement from life and all its secular interests to engage in voiceless adoration and unending worship.

The Christian view of perfection recognizes the truth of the other two views, but combines them in a higher view. In the Christian view, life with all its interests is the field of the Christian's spiritual life with all its joys and sorrows. Whatever the Christian does, he is to do it heartily, for the Lord and not to men. And this living in all things unto the Lord is his religion.

The same idea is made clear by Dr. Hugh Black, the great Scotch preacher of perfection: the Hebrew, the Greek, and the Christian. The Hebrew ideal means restraint, the Greek ideal means culture, the Christian ideal combines both culture and restraint, with the higher power of Jesus Christ to enable the human soul to attain the perfection it desires.

We thus find that the universal desire for perfection finds its realization only in Jesus Christ, and that the perfection is a complete life of life itself, not of the body or mind or spirit alone; not of the intellect or feeling or will alone. Life, full, complete spiritual life, is the great fact of Christianity.

Jesus declares, "I am the way, the truth and the life." And again in the words of the text, "And again I might have life, and that you might have it more abundantly." Do you desire this more abundant life?

When Jesus came into the world with his gospel of the religion of life, he found a religion of Judaism. He found people enslaved by the law and creed of their forefathers. The law and creed had become ends in themselves, instead of being means to lead men to God. Jesus overcame this traditional view and set men free from the shackles of creed. There is a place in the gospel of Jesus for creed, the gospel is man's creed as well as his religion. Unless you substitute the creed for the life, the life will determine the life. You ought to live. You no longer say, "There is a personal God," then, consequently says, "Prepare to meet thy God."

If we would have the life Jesus came to give men we must be born again. We are born again when we believe in Jesus Christ. We receive the more abundant life when we fully trust Him.

WESLEYAN REVIVAL.

Fourteen centuries after Christ His religion of life had deteriorated back to the religion of creed, and then Christianity and not Christianity. The Protestant reformation was an attempt to re-establish the Christianity of Jesus Christ. It substituted the creed, salvation by faith, for the law, but it never demanded of men that they should love their enemies. Here is an ideal which one must set for oneself for no one else is bold enough to do so.

The law can make certain regulations about pure living and punish those who are flagrantly indecent. But Jesus suggests a higher ideal than any law can even dream of enforcing. When he says that "look on a thought is enough to constitute an offense," you can regulate a man's actions but not his thinking. In the thought world no laws, but ideals, operate.

LOVE OF NEIGHBOR.

There was a law that asked men to love their neighbors as themselves. This was an old Hebrew law to which Jesus gave his approval. It has sometimes been taken as the very climax of Jesus' gospel. It is far short of that. Jesus suggested to men an ideal which is as high above that law and every law as the heavens are high above the earth. It is as far removed from any law as Jesus is from the common man. "That you love one another as I have loved you." Here is an ideal which can only be self-imposed.

Man does well to be charitable toward the sins of others on the ground that they are merely human. But he has no right to excuse his own sin because he is a weak human being, nor to expect anything less of himself than Christianlike conduct, because he is a sinner. Jesus asked men to set for themselves the ideal of perfection. Here is no petty "realizable ideal," and yet how inspiring! We shall not attain it, but we shall ever be going toward it. Yet we escape it if we can from the austere limits of the square deal into the round spaces of the ideal.

Rev. Govette Bids Farewell

—St. Paul's Methodist.

Urging his flock to look to Christ for sustenance and not so much to the things of this world, Rev. Harold Govette preached his final sermon yesterday morning after four years of continuous service at St. Paul's Methodist church.

Following his address there were four accessions into the church and the pastor baptized two children. His successor has not yet been appointed, and Rev. Govette does not know to what place his conference will assign him, but must leave as the limit of service in his church is a four year pastoral at any one parish.

"Looking at the Lamb of God" was the subject selected by Rev. Govette for his farewell sermon, taking his text from the first chapter of John, 3:14. "And looking upon Jesus as his savior, he said, 'Behold the Lamb of God.' In part he said:

Judas was in a great state of excitement over the appearance and wonderful preaching of John the Baptist and desired to do him honor. But John refused to accept the honor which he believed belonged to another, saying that he must decrease in order that Christ might increase, and would that the people turn their attention from himself to Jesus. Soon we find that John's disciples left him to follow Jesus. This did not distress John at all, for he realized that since Christ had come his mission on earth was ended. Hence he said, "Behold the Lamb of God."

People began to gather about Christ to hear his preaching and to receive the benefit of his healing power. The Messiah was without fault or blemish—so Jesus of Nazareth, God's son, was a lamb without a blemish. His heart was sinless and his character was above reproach. When he came he found the people of the world steeped in sin, but he came to take away the sin of the world. His greatest message was "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Christ filled two very important offices—that of Redeemer and that of Intercessor. He redeemed the world from sin that all who believed in Him should be saved. Now He is at the right hand of God interceding for us that we, through Him, may be saved.

The sinner should behold the Lamb of God by repenting of his sins. And then they should behold His life and try to pattern their lives in accordance with the life of the Son of God. In beholding Him not only for the forgiveness of our sins, but for escape from the spiritual death and the receiving of the fellowship of Christ—it would be good for all men to behold the Lamb of God.

There is life for a look at the crucified one, there is life at this moment for all.

Forget the things of this world, my friends, and look more to Christ for guidance and for strength.

Rev. Thomas Clayton, at the First Unitarian church yesterday morning began a series of sermons on "Our Contribution to the Ascent of Life." He discussed the particular topic, "Increasing Our Knowledge of the Truth," after introducing the general theme as follows:

He also pointed out that man has the power to control in a measure his own environment; this being a distinguishing mark of his superiority over all other creatures. than the standards which men can impose upon one another. The law allowed an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. That was a very humane law compared with the one for which it was substituted. But it represented the kind of conduct which could be exacted by the courts. We require now a more humane treatment of offenders than that. We may possibly even require that men shall not testify in court if it will do them harm. The law of men that they shall love their enemies—Here is an ideal which one must set for oneself for no one else is bold enough to do so.

SCHOOL GROUNDS

The idea of using a substantial fraction of the proposed school bond issue for the purchase of sites will unquestionably justify itself in experience. There is, for instance, not a school site in Fresno now which is large enough, or which can now be made larger except by an extravagant expenditure of money. But nearly all of them could have been made larger very cheaply, when they were first purchased. Even if schools were always to remain what they now are, the mere growth of the future would justify liberal provision now. And the whole school system is verging rapidly toward a system in which land will be more important than buildings. We shall be using all the school grounds soon as supervised play grounds, not merely during school recesses, five days a week, nine months in the year, but all day, every day, twelve months in the year. The most useful and popular school rooms in Fresno just now are the open air schools, which in their best California form, are a Fresno development. The buildings for these schools are very cheap. We can easily have all we want of them. But actually we do have very few. And the reason is that we have not land enough. These little open-air enclosures, of one room, have to be set far enough apart so that one class will not too much disturb the rest. The saving in the cost of buildings would easily pay for the extra land. But on the present sites we have not the land and can not get it. So, having developed a remarkable school innovation, and tested it by experience, we can make only limited use of it, for lack of room. Yet even these perfected open-air schools are only a short step in the ultimate direction. They differ from other schools merely in construction and ventilation. Lessons are still taught in them, at desks, out of books. When we begin using the out-of-doors as the text-book itself, when we begin to learn more by doing and less by reading and reciting, we shall need still more land, and the piled-up brick barricades will become more and more anachronistic. So, by all means, get land.

And of course, chiefly, and now, and by all means, pass these bonds.

ABSORB UNEMPLOYED

When the slot machines were suppressed, there was a great howl about the number of people who would be "thrown out of employment." The same shriek goes up whenever it is proposed to limit or abolish saloons. We heard it when the pool rooms were closed and the race-track gamblers were penalized. And now comes the plaint that when tenderloins are closed the denizens will be added to the "army of the unemployed."

All of which was bosh in all the previous cases, and is equally so in this. No possible suppression of vice can throw out of employment as many people as were displaced by the lingo, for instance, or any similar mechanical improvement. Yet no business man at least objected to the lingo on that ground. And, in a comparatively short time, instead of displacing printers, so increased the total amount of printing that actually more printers were employed, at better wages and shorter hours, than before the advent of the machine. In the case of the persons displaced by reforming vice, the resultant improvement of legitimate business has always provided legitimate jobs for more of the displaced persons than would take them. The same thing will follow, of course, in the case of the present crusade. In fact, when the crusade is purely local, the "unemployment" question settled itself. The displaced persons simply move elsewhere. When it becomes general, they will move, some into respectable occupations; some into crime and degeneracy, into prisons and institutions; and some into the more private practices of the same vices. There is no place of society that can be better spared from its present occupations. And there is none whose "unemployment" will be more effectively absorbed.

HOW MUCH LONGER?

The rumor that the Mexican Congress had been released was a canard. It is in the penitentiary, incommunicado, for the crime of not agreeing with Huerta. The wives of the deputies may send them food and clothing, but they may not see or receive word. They will in due time be "tried" for the various offenses of which they are not yet accused, and of course will receive such sentence as the dictator commands—provided he is still dictator then.

And it is reported that Mexico is "quiet!" And perhaps it is. But how supine must a people be that would submit to that? Suppose President Wilson were arbitrarily to arrest its members incommunicado in a military prison. How long would America remain quiet? What newspaper would submit to being muzzled? What soldiers would remain loyal? What populace would refrain from mob violence? And how long would President Wilson last? Probably just long enough to sign his resignation, with a vigilance committee headed by Admiral Dowie, General Wood and Chief Justice White, holding pistols to his head until he did. For a people able to govern itself could not submit for a moment to such usurpation. It is a bad business. Not the Cesar of all the Russias would dare treat his Duma that way. Not for many centuries has any European king treated his parliament that way. Though some parliaments have treated kings that way. Only in Mexico could such things be. And we, lamentably, are responsible to the world for seeing that they do not happen much longer, nor any worse, in Mexico.

Just think! Only five years ago one of the leading commodities advertised in the Republican was bugles. And now they are applying for permission to run the few remaining horses into sausage.

LOCAL HARNESSMEN JOIN STATE BODY

Hold Convention at Sequoia Hotel; Fifty Members Attend Banquet

The retail harness men of the San Joaquin valley joined the California Retail Harness Association yesterday at the convention of the latter, which was held in this city yesterday for this purpose. The delegates arrived Saturday night and were in session early yesterday morning at the Sequoia hotel, where they made their headquarters. They adjourned last night. A banquet was held in their honor during the noon hour in the cafe of the hotel at which fifty members were present, representing towns all the way from Marysville to Pasadena.

The organization is for the purpose of promoting good fellowship and harmony among the dealers and to secure co-operation in the handling of the various questions that arise regarding their business which require the attention of all interested.

CUMBERLAND SYNOD COMES TO A CLOSE

Many Addresses During the Day; Next Conference to Meet in Merced

The Pacific Synod of the Cumberland Presbyterian church closed a successful three-day session in this city last evening and adjourned to meet next week in Merced.

The work of the day was principally routine business. The early morning session was given over to Sunday school workers, the synodical visitors mingling with the members of the local school. The severe punishment of the men who attacked Moses was used for the lesson, in which the danger was pointed out of opening a good man who keeps his peace.

"The Water of Life" was the subject of the morning sermon delivered by Moderator G. B. Russell of Los Angeles. The text was taken from the book of John, where it related the conversation of Jesus with the woman of Samaria at the well.

In the afternoon the synodical sacramental service was held, with Rev. K. Henry of San Francisco and Rev. S. P. Sippin of San Jose as communicants. In the addresses following, lessons were taken from the lives of the late A. W. Baldrige and George A. Sippin.

Miss Guerdon Sippin of San Leandro was in charge of the services which began at 6:30 and at 7:30 the Ladies' Missionary Society took charge, with the president, Mrs. Middle of Hanford, presiding. Prayers were read by Mrs. M. D. Hawkins of Merced, Mrs. S. P. Sippin and an address was delivered by Miss Guerdon Sippin.

The synod closed at a late hour with a vote of appreciation of the hospitality of the Fresno Cumberland Presbyterian church, the members of which, headed by Pastor J. R. Walker, provided meals and sleeping accommodations for the delegates.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH OFFERS FINE MUSIC

Sacred Program Rendered Last Night Draws Record Congregation

A congregation declared to be the largest the first Christian church has held since its dedication, crowded the edifice last evening to hear the splendid program of sacred music arranged by Rev. Shirley R. Shaw, associate pastor. Many stood in the vestibule and scores were turned away when the church was crowded to the doors.

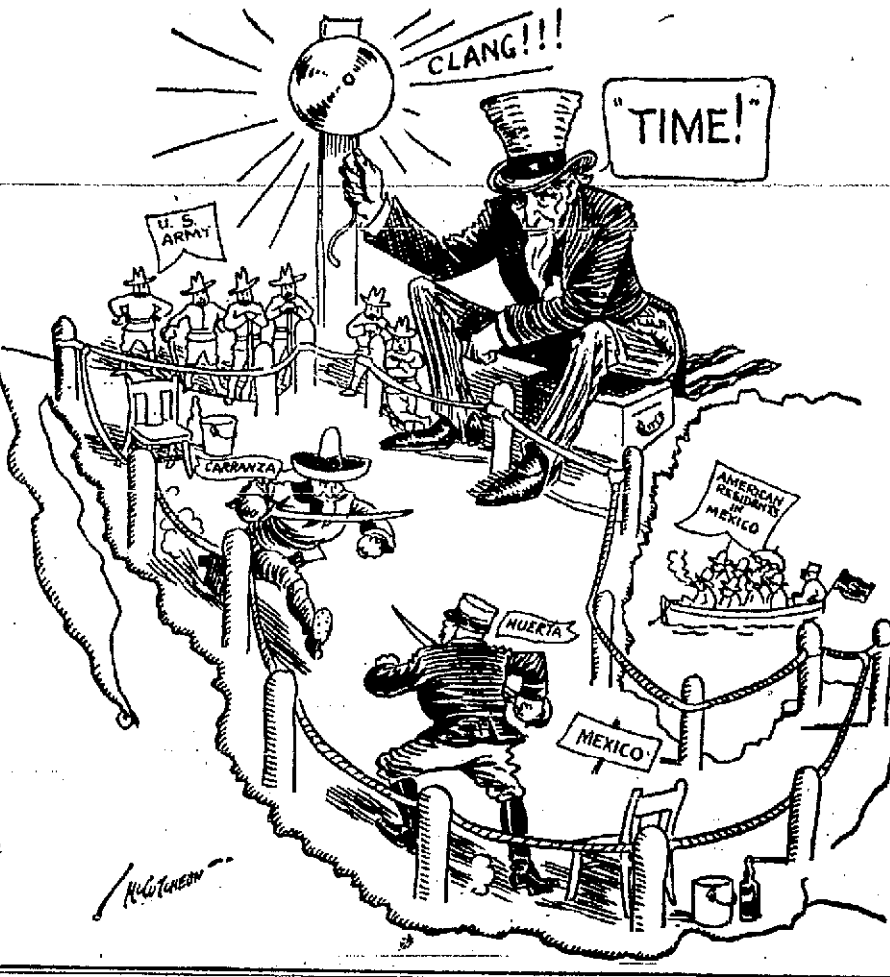

The long program of exceptional merit was rendered by soloists and choir of forty voices with a remarkable unity, the blending of the voices in the choir being remarked upon as particularly good. A delightful interpretation of Tenneyson's Crossing the Sea, as set to music by Dudley Buck, was given by Shirley Shaw, Duke Shilmanian's tenor was in pleasant evidence, while other parts were sung by Mrs. Eugene J. Wootley, contralto, Miss Mabelle Burch, alto, and Shirley R. Shaw, bass.

Miss Henrietta Burns rendered a violin solo. Miss Roxie Blais was at the piano and Miss Gladys Greenwood at the organ.

The WORLD'S MYSTERIES

WAS FULTON OR FITCH FATHER OF STEAM NAVIGATION?

Robert Fulton is generally referred to as the father of steam navigation, and the opinion is so generally prevalent that there were other steamboats before Robert Fulton's Clermont, and vessels propelled by steam that fully met all the requirements. But Fulton may be put down as the first fortunate inventor, for he possessed the business acumen which it would seem that his predecessors lacked, for when he got his boat going he was able to keep it going, and to establish navigation by steam which has attained wonderful results in development.

In writing the history of steam navigation, and without taking from Fulton any of the laurels that belong to him, John Fitch should not be forgotten, for Fitch invented a boat propelled by steam that was operated on the Delaware river a number of years previous to Fulton's similar exhibition on the Hudson.

Undoubtedly the first practical success in steam navigation was made by John Fitch, a native of Windsor, Conn., who had settled in New Jersey as a silversmith. The first step in the development of steam navigation was taken by Fitch in 1784. He rapidly matured his plans, and in August, 1785, he petitioned Congress for aid in constructing his boat. The records of the American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia show that "a model, accompanied by a drawing and description of a machine for working a boat against a stream by means of a steam engine, was laid before the society by John Fitch on September 27, 1785."

With the pecuniary assistance of several gentlemen, Fitch immediately undertook to build a steamboat. In the "Columbian Magazine" for December, 1785, he gave a description of this vessel and its machinery.

On May 1, 1786, Fitch's steamboat, The Perseverance, was put in motion on the Delaware river, and made three miles an hour. This speed did not satisfy Fitch and various improvements were soon added. The boat, with its greatly improved power, was successfully tested in the fall of 1788. Dr. Thornton, long at the head of the United States Patent office, and many other eminent men certified that the boat moved in dead water at the rate of eight miles an hour, or one mile in seven and a half minutes. With thirty passengers the boat left Philadelphia, and, moving against the current of the Delaware, reached Burlington, a distance of twenty miles in three hours and ten minutes.

Dr. Thornton stated that "The Perseverance" afterwards made eighty miles in one day. The steamboat was run for some time as a packet to Burlington, but after several mishaps it was burned in 1792. But more rivers were needed to introduce the invention, and the numerous stockholders could not be brought to respond to further assessments. Fitch himself was cramped for the necessities of life. He repeatedly asserted that the passenger traffic of the great western rivers would one day be carried on exclusively by steam, that ships of war and packet ships would navigate the Atlantic by steam, and that some one who came after him would reap fame and fortune from his invention.

Fitch's claim of invention was contested by James Rumsey, of Maryland, who, in 1786, drove a boat on the Potomac, near Sheppardsstown, at

The Cow

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Of all the animals designed by nature the cow is one of the most successful.

She is a neat, durable animal of moderate size, and fitted with a large number of very ingenious conveniences. In fact the evidences are that the cow was constructed a long time after man was invented, and that she embodies the result of much more experience.

The cow is toolless, and uses instead a cleverly designed cloven hoof, which is not afflicted with corns or bunions. Because of the fact that she does not need shoes the cow is able to afford four feet. With these she can travel twice as fast as an ordinary man, and can "eat" as an angle of fifty degrees on a slippery hillside with perfect comfort.

The cow has no upper teeth. Those mortals who have spent their nights carrying a double set of insurgent teeth around a bedroom and their days earning money enough to have those teeth yanked out and replaced have cause to envy the cow with great fury.

The cow also has four stomachs. This enables her to have indigestion in one stomach and yet to limp along very nicely on three cylinders through a 130 course dinner. Because of her four stomachs the cow is also able to eat all day and far into the night.

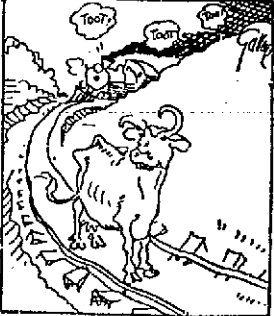

The cow has no upper teeth. Those mortals who have spent their nights carrying a double set of insurgent teeth around a bedroom and their days earning money enough to have those teeth yanked out and replaced have cause to envy the cow with great fury.

The cow is also able to swallow her food in bunches and to show it afterward. It is disgusting to think that nature has wasted this magnificent arrangement on a cow, while thousands of American business men are turning yellow and shriveling up with dyspepsia for want of it.

The cow is also able to carry her milk supply through the hottest summer without ice. And yet in spite of all these improvements and facilities the cow is not rich.

In fact she hasn't a cent to her name. Bearing the fact that she is worth 25 cents a pound, when converted into porthouse steaks, dried beef and soup bones, she is a bankrupt, and has to depend for food all winter upon the efforts of a hired man with a pitch fork.

"She knows that whatever the engine does to her will increase her value from 25 cents to $1.50 a pound."

The cow is like to many humans. She is mightily equipped for life, but she declines to worry. Even when a cow strays upon a railroad track and is being toiled locomotive she maintains her placid disposition and her sweetness of temper.

But perhaps this is because she knows that whatever the engine does to her will increase her value from 25 cents to $1.50 a pound.

KINGSBURG PLEASD WITH FAIR EXHIBITS

Board of Trustees;

News Notes

KINGSBURG, Oct. 12.—C. A. Johnson, a prominent business man, has been chosen to fill the vacancy on the board of city trustees caused by the resignation of J. H. Henshaw. His term, as well as that of Trustees Fossberg, both filled by appointment, expires in the spring.

The Kingsburg Club met Friday evening and after the usual business of the club, the members turned to the Kingsburg exhibits at the Fresno district fair. The societies came out "to the good." About $400 had been collected to defray the expenses of both exhibits. Expenses incurred about $235 for the Board of Trade's agricultural display, $92 for the Progress club's display of fancy work and canned fruits in the women's department, or a total for both exhibits of about $327, leaving a surplus of $17, in addition to the $267 in premiums secured by both exhibits. The $187 secured as premiums by the ladies will be expended according to promise in installing public drinking fountains on Draper street.

The Board of Trade expects to use its prize money to establish the nucleus of a permanent exhibit and to help promote plans for next year's exhibit. The organizations are already fully determined to exhibit next year, and to begin early and do it right. Both organizations are well pleased this year with the success of Kingsburg's first exhibit at the district fair, and feel that Kingsburg and vicinity has received favorable advertising worth far more than the cost and trouble of making the exhibit.

Rev. G. E. Kallstedt, former preading elder of the Swedish M. E. church, at Kingsburg, has been elected to the annual conference at Spokane, Washington. He returned Saturday morning to his home in Pasadena, where he is now stationed as pastor.

Rev. J. H. Lovdahl has been returned to Kingsburg as pastor of the Swedish M. E. church for another year.

Geo. J. Harkness and M. V. Byrd leave tomorrow for southeastern Arizona, on a land inspecting trip.

A. R. Hollinger, of Reedley, was in Kingsburg on Saturday.

M. Aslan was in Fresno on Sunday.

COLISEUMS TAKE MEASURE OF BRUNSWICKS IN CLOSE FIGHT

Merriman and Johnson in Stiff Pitchers' Battle for Full Seven Innings; Arcades Defeat the McAfees by Score of 14 to 3

One very good ball game and another very poor one was staged at Recreation Park yesterday afternoon, the Coliseums defeating the Brunswicks 4 to 3, while the Arcades took the measure of the McAfees by the overwhelming odds of 14 to 3. The vast difference of night and day was depicted in the first and second contests.

In the opening battle, the Arcades got away to a nine run lead and they merely toyed with their victims for the rest of the game, which the time limit forced to an appreciative close shortly after the seventh inning had opened. Welch and Massow were the pitchers for the McAfees, and both were hit to every corner of the lot. The former lasted two-thirds of the first inning, when he retired in favor of the former San Franciscan.

Johnson and Merriman staged a pitching duel in the last contest. Both allowed five hits. The Coliseums pulled one more error than their opponents, but hitting in a pinch brought them out ahead. Not before dusk had settled over the enclosure did the conflict cease.

FIRST GAME
Ryan opened up the game for the Arcades in the first inning by singling to left. Castle hit down to Clow, who forced Ryan at second. Steele drove heartily to Tufts, who drew to Beeson in an attempt to force Castle, but the Arcadian beat the ball to the base. A Coliseum base hit resulted.

Merriman ripped a single to center and Massow pegged high over Clow's head. Castle and Steele scoring. Dauner and Phipps secured free transportation.

Manager Bill Budge decided at this point that Welch was not the man for this position, therefore, Massow was motioned to the box. With Welch on the mound, Ryan drove to drive to Tufts for a hit, scoring Dauner. Spang followed with an infield drive that went for a hit. Sorenson thumped a double down first base line and Ostrander and Spang scored.

For the second time during the inning Ryan came to the plate. Massow proceeded with his willingness and issued a pass on balls. Castle followed with an infield hit through Beeson, scoring Sorenson. In an attempt to take second on the throw to the plate, Ryan was thrown out. Ryan came to the plate. Massow proceeded with his willingness and issued a pass on balls. Castle followed with an infield hit through Beeson, scoring Sorenson. In an attempt to take second on the throw to the plate, Ryan was thrown out.

Dunn opened the third with a single to center. Welch hit to Sorenson who started a double play to Phipps, the latter eliminating it by shooting to Launer. Tufts was hit in the ribs by a pitched ball. Branch singled to left. Tufts landing on third. Beeson hit to Phipps, who pulled an error and Branch and Tufts scored. Beeson went out in an attempt to stretch the play for another base. Score:

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 12.-San Francisco made it an even break in the farrow series at Sacramento when Overhill outpitched Klawitter in a tight game today.

Overhill pitched a double in the fifth inning and materially helped to tie up the score for the Coliseums. Ford walked. Merriman came to bat and caught a Merriman delivery on a trade mark, holding it out of the lat via left field. Stoner went out, Cartwright to center, Johnson singled to center and stole second, landing on third safely when Smith let one through him. Esola flew out to Stapp. Ward singled to left and brought in the run that tied.

The Coliseums won in the seventh. Merriman secured a walk. Stoner hit to Hyde, who threw to Esola on second for a force. Stoner landing safely on first. BEAVERS DEFEAT VENETIANS TWICE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.-A double defeat of the hands of Portland today reduced Venice's chance for the pennant to a slender possibility, although the Grizzlies now consider Venice out of the running. The morning game was a pitchers' battle between Baum and James, in which the latter excelled. The score was 3 to 2.

With the score tied in the afternoon struggle, the Venice infield crumbled. In the eighth inning and three Beavers scored on one hit. Edmondson recalled Harkness in the ninth and was hammered for three hits which netted another run. Venice counted its only run in the fourth, when Kugler hit in center field for a home run. Shortstop Davis, the Portland recruit, played a star game in the field and at bat, making a triple, double and single out of four trips to the plate. Scores:

EMPLOYEES HOLD MIDNIGHT MEETING TO FORM UNION IN DEFIANCE OF CAR COMPANY

Webster Turns Down Request Presented by Organizer; Men Object to Irregular Hours; Wages Not Involved in Negotiations

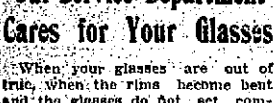

Seventy-five carmen, conductors and electricians in the employ of the Fresno Traction Company were discussing plans for the organization of a union under the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, at 2:30 this morning in Union Hall. The meeting was called by E. F. Bowbeer, organizer for the Oakland Carman's union, following the refusal yesterday afternoon of F. W. Webster, manager of the Fresno Traction, to consider a proposed union agreement. It is expected that temporary organization will be effected before adjournment is taken this morning.

The proposed agreement was submitted to Webster last Thursday. He immediately forwarded the papers to Paul Shoup, head of the Pacific Coast electric system, for consideration. Yesterday afternoon Webster received word from Shoup instructing him not to treat with the men who intended to organize.

Following the housing of the street cars at 1:30 this morning, the carmen convened in Union Hall. There are ninety platform men in Fresno and about thirty-five outside men, bringing the total eligible to the union to 125.

STOCKTON AGREEMENT IDENTICAL. D. F. Bowbeer states that the proposed agreement submitted to Webster is identical with the one now in effect in Stockton, where Webster is in charge. Stockton has been in the same position for the past ten years, according to Bowbeer, and during that time the union has had little or no trouble with the Traction Company.

The proposed agreement provides for 40 cents an hour for the first year, and 45 cents thereafter for the next ten years, according to Bowbeer, and during that time the union has had little or no trouble with the Traction Company.

BACKACHE IS A DANGER SIGNAL

Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism, and Serious Diseases Follow.

There are other symptoms, such as pains in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and worn-out feeling, weak bladder, or urinary troubles, which are just as dangerous, for the slightest kidney derangement neglected may develop into the deadly Bright's disease, dropsy or diabetes.

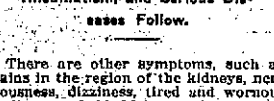

It is not only dangerous, but needful for you to suffer and endure those tortures of these troubles. For Croxone promptly ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy for kidney, bladder trouble and rheumatism than Croxone because it reaches the cause. It seeks right into the kidneys, through the veins and linings, cleans out the clogged up pores, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter, that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Croxone a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to relieve the worst headache or over-come disagreeable urinary disorders.

You will find Croxone different from other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it should fail in a single case.

THIRTEEN NEW CASES OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Her husband died of Bright's Disease and that too after he had taken Euton's Renal Compound. But that there were some results may be known from the fact that the widow, Mrs. N. L. Woolsey of 1423 W. Lake street, Minneapolis, Minn., now writes out of the fullness of her heart to give the names of thirteen people living in Minneapolis every one of whom are on the Renal Compound and "making good reports." She says:

"I feel it my duty to give you this letter. I am sending you these patients' names and this letter to let you know the good you are doing."

We never heard of this lady before the purely of her letter. But now about the incurability of Bright's Disease in view of such testimony as this?

Most cases of Bright's Disease are on digitalis or nitro glycerine, both heart agents. Euton's Renal Compound acts directly on the kidney tissues and by opposing renal degeneration has in thousands of cases proven the one thing needed to give potency to the heart treatment and turn the cases toward recovery. It does not conflict, can simply be added. Patterson Block Pharmacy, local agents.

CHRONIC COLDS

Are Contracted by Changeable Weather. A Simple Remedy.

Sudden changes are particularly trying for old people, or those who suffer from a weakened run-down condition, chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis, but if such persons would only apply common sense methods in the treatment of their condition, much discomfort and suffering might be avoided.

The most essential thing to do is to build up strength, enrich the blood, increase vital resistance and to accomplish this nothing equals Vinol, our cod liver and iron tonic.

Mrs. M. J. Grimes of Springfield, Ohio, says: "I was badly run-down, nervous and weak, and while in this condition I contracted a heavy cold, and rheumatism. Vinol was recommended and I am happy to say it cured my cold and restored me to health again."

Old people, delicate children, run-down, overworked and tired women, those suffering from bronchitis, chronic coughs and colds should try a bottle of Vinol. We will return your money if it does not help you. Bowman Drug Co.

One whole half day session and one evening will be given over to the women to discuss, among themselves, the various campaigns ways and means that have been advocated for the carrying out of a plan for the beautifying of Fresno. Many authorities on these subjects have been secured to make addresses at the headquarters of the convention in the Fresno hotel.

The first matter that will be taken up by them Friday afternoon will be "How to Make the Home Garden Beautiful." Ernest Brautman, a prominent landscape artist in the southern part of the state, will lead the discussion on this subject. He will be aided by Mrs. E. L.
